1. How to Use This Planner

*"For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven." —
Ecclesiastes 3:1*

A career in music can easily become all rush and no rhythm — always chasing the next release, the next session, the next opportunity. This planner is built to give your days and weeks a shape: dedicated time to create, dedicated time to build your career, and dedicated time to rest without guilt.

Print the templates in this planner and use them weekly, or treat them as a model for your own notebook. There's no wrong way to use it — the goal is simply consistency over intensity.

2. Weekly Rhythm Overview

A sustainable week for a working artist tends to balance four kinds of time. This is a starting framework, not a rule — adjust it to your season of life.

Focus	Suggested Time
Writing & recording	3–4 sessions/week
Business (emails, releases, admin)	1–2 hours/day
Promotion & audience building	3–5 hours/week
Rest & Sabbath	1 full day/week

3. Daily Planning Page (Template)

5. Release Countdown Checklist

- Final mix and master approved
- Cover art finalized
- Distribution submitted (allow 2-4 weeks lead time)
- Pre-save link created and shared
- Lyrics/credits document prepared
- Social media content scheduled
- Playlist pitch submitted
- Release day post drafted

6. Rest & Sabbath Page

"So then, there remains a Sabbath rest for the people of God." — Hebrews 4:9

Rest isn't the absence of productivity — it's part of a sustainable creative life. Use this page once a week to step fully away from output.

What am I setting down today?

Who or what can I be fully present with today?

One thing I'm grateful for this week:

7. Monthly Reflection

What did I create this month that I'm proud of?

Where did I feel rushed or out of rhythm?

What's one adjustment I want to make next month?

8. A Closing Word

*"Trust in the Lord with all your heart, and do not lean on your own understanding." —
Proverbs 3:5*

A career built on rhythm instead of rush lasts longer, and it leaves room for the Lord to lead it. Use this planner as a tool, not a taskmaster — and give yourself grace on the weeks it doesn't go as planned.

Thank you for being part of the Integrity Records community. We hope this planner helps your creative life feel a little less rushed, and a little more rooted.
